Showcasing The Life & Art Of Henriëtte Johanna Ignatia Maria van Gasteren

📅 April 26, 2023

HJIMvanGasteren (Henriëtte Johanna Ignatia Maria van Gasteren), formerly known as Lilith, is a multimedia artist who has won numerous awards and is a well-known portrait photographer. She was born in Sevenum, the Netherlands, in 1964. She has had multiple exhibitions in both the United States and Europe.

Henriëtte uses self-portraits to describe how women are seen in society today. Identity, gender roles, freedom, equality, religion, and the good and bad sides of the human experience are recurring themes in her writing. Her art is sometimes humorous, sensual, usually aggressive, and always creative and intelligent.

Henriëtte's work is frequently gathered by contemporary art buyers and is included in international museum collections.

Apart from being a portrait photographer, she enjoys documentary photography a lot. Her documentary images are included in the Jewish Museum in Amsterdam (NL) collection

Learn From Henriëtte About Her “Make My Day” Initiative.

She said: “ If people find any joy and value in what I do—my stories, my self-portraits—they could consider becoming a supporter with a donation of their choosing between a cup of tea, a vodka, a pizza, a fine dinner, and a gift. I put a lot of time and effort into my work, and if people want to give me some help for the time and effort, they can kick me back directly through PayPal using the buttons on my website. A direct bank transfer is also possible. People can also become one-time patrons with a single donation of any amount.

I believe in art being free and respecting copyright rights. If you’re broke, enjoy my art. And if you love it, come back and kick in. If you’re rich, think about who might karmically cover your stories and self-portraits.”

Henriëtte always embraces projects and concepts that spontaneously cross her path. Although she is a very powerful portrait photographer, her art is compelling. For example, in her current project, “Silent Scream,” she portrays perpetrators and victims of sexual assault. She began this project a few years ago after her daughter was raped. Henriëtte herself went through this untoward incident, and she felt powerless when the same happened to her daughter.

The purpose behind this project is that she wants people to be able to look into the eyes of perpetrators and victims so that we can try to understand what is going on inside them and how situations can lead to sexual violence. In addition, she intends to give people a voice, an opportunity to share their stories.

Henriëtte's Artist Statement:

People are vulnerable. They can be wounded, and this is frightening. Globalization and the online revolution can expose our world to those with evil intentions. Yet, goodness and kindness are spreading.

As an artist, this innate vulnerability of humankind represents the ultimate form of goodness. Therefore, my art, every self-portrait, is a form of expedition, taken one step at a time, to discover the contours of this inner vulnerability. Through my photography, I can rediscover and rekindle my faith in humanity.

Henriëtte is a portrait photographer, her art includes nude photography, and it tends to stand out from others because of her unique concepts and approach.

Nude photography is a different niche from all other photography genres; henriëtte has remarkable photographs as a part of her work.
